VOLUME XXXV NO. 24

GLEICHEN, ALBERTA, WEDNESDAY AUGUST 26, 1942

SUBSCRIPTION $2.00 PER YEAR

WM. SUTERMEISTER DELIVERS FIRST LOAD THIS YEAR'S CROP

Last Wednesday W. Sutermeister had the honor of harvesting and bringing into the local elevators the first load of this year's grain. The grain was barley and the yield was 70 bushels an acre.

Harvesting throughout the district will not be general for sometime yet, probably a couple of weeks. Since more rain has fallen during the first part of the week some more delay will occur.

CANADA'S ARMY PREPARING TO TAKE TO SKIES

Six officers and 20 non-commissioned officers comprised the first team from the Canadian Army to be accepted for service in the First Canadian Parachute Battalion are now in training at Fort Benning, Georgia.

The will return to Canada upon completion of their courses for service as instructors in the Canadian army parachute training centres to be opened at Camp Shilo, Man.

Given a send-off from Landdowns Park, Ottawa, where the initial instructional cadre was selected by the commander-in-chief, 31-year-old Major Hilton David Proctor, of Ottawa, the unit was inspected by Defence Minister Ralston and two senior officers from National Defence Headquarters.

General J. C. McCreery, chief of the general staff, and Brig. E. G. Weeks, deputy chief of the general staff.

All fully qualified soldiers, volunteers for the 1st Canadian Parachute Battalion must be of high physical standards. They must be alert, active, well-muscled, with first-class eyesight and endurance. Senior officers must be under 35, and captains and lieutenants not over 32, and N.C.O.'s and men from 18 to 32.

Canada will have the best parachutists in the world in the opinion of Canadian army leaders. In addition to the unit in training as instructors in the United States, there are Canadian soldiers from the Canadian army overseas, who will have had training in the British parachute schools, and who will serve as instructors at Camp Shilo. The best features of all existing methods of training paratroops are to be incorporated into the Canadian system.

A jumping tower will be erected at Camp Shilo and volunteers will be given complete instruction in all phases of this modern form of fighting.

"There has been a very large response to the call for volunteers for the parachute battalions," stated Brig. Weeks. "We are careful in our selection not to enroll a man with specialized technical training. We want strong fighting soldiers with initiative and military experience. They must be under 185 pounds in weight and have strong feet and ankles."

Training will be progressive. First the men will be trained in jumping off walls, 10 and then 15 feet high. Then there will be the tower-jumping from the 250-foot structure. They will first make a controlled jump from the tower in which they will be guided by the ground by wires. Then come the "free" jumps, and the men will commence real parachute jumping from planes.

Service with the paratroops is absolutely voluntary. If a man even suggests that he doesn't feel like jumping, he will be removed from the parachute battalion and transferred back to his own unit. A distinctive uniform and special paratroop badges will be worn.

Millets and feed dealers must continue to observe ceiling prices on flour and feed. Arrangements have been made for their receipt where it is an appropriate price in relation to their ceilings. Details of a plan to relate the difference between respective appropriate prices and current market prices to the domestic purchaser through the Wheat Board, and through the agriculture supplies in the case of wheat for animal consumption, are being worked out. Re-bidding will be made from the federal treasury.

SON OF MRS. AND MRS. J. W. RAMSAY IN BIG RAID ON DIEPPE

Despatches from England mention the name of Pte-Lieut. Dave Ramsay of Calgary in the raid on Dieppe. Pte-Lieut. D. Ramsay is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ramsay of Gleichen. He was one of the two Canadians who saw service in Russia sometime ago. According to the despatch from England Pte-Lieut. Ramsay was very anxious to load up his plane with more ammunition and go back to Europe even though he had already taken a big part in the raid.

ITEMS OF INTEREST OF THE TOWN AND DISTRICT

Mr. and Mrs. W. Schmidt of Calgary spent the week end in Gleichen, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. Blane.

Miss M. McLeod, matron of the Blackfoot hospital, has returned to town after spending several weeks visiting her parents in Coleman.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Yates left on Monday for a holiday at Sylvan Lake. They were accompanied from Calgary by their daughter Peggy and son Dr. Yates. Mr. Yates will return home this week end.

James Cunningham of Kamloops, B.C. is spending a couple of weeks in town visiting his mother, Mrs. Cunningham. James is on the staff of the Indian school at Kamloops.

Lac. Kippa Schmidt of Bogenwille, Quebec, was the guest of Elliot Evans over the weekend. Kippa has been located in Quebec for sometime now and this is his second trip home since he went east. He and his family have been there for some time. He doesn't care much for Quebec and he doesn't make mention of the girls there. He cannot talk English and he cannot talk French with the exception of the few words "coupe a la chevrolet."

John Dewar, aged 56 years, died at his home last week. He was born in Ireland and came to Alberta 31 years ago, coming to Gleichen some 12 years ago from Lundbreck. He was a farmer. Funeral services were conducted by the Salvation Army and which interment was made in Evenden cemetery.

Farmers wives signing vouchers for sugar for harvesters, optimistic ally write in for extra allotments of tea and coffee, only to be turned down by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Supplies of tea and coffee for harvesters must come out of the ration allotment. So harvest workers, if you want a cup of coffee, put your ration card in your pocket when you go up country with the crew.

THE RUM ISSUE

BY FRED JONES
This Column Given to News of the Gleichen Branch of the Canadian Legion

The weather on the coast has been hot and dry for a month now and a pleasant respite from the rain. Our company has had a winter here and if we go back to Alberta this fall we will be in position to decide whether we prefer freezing to drowning. I like the climate but was much disappointed to find the land so poor. The farmers here seem to consider fertilizing an absolute necessity while green stuff can be raised easily and remain in the ground late in the year. No bigger or better than on the prairie and does not show the quick vegetation it attains under the Alberta sun.

I hear a recruiting campaign is in full swing to add to the strength of the ancient Britons. As we have not been issued with wheel chairs or crutches yet they may have a hard time getting into shape but I heard a rumor that we will have white canvas to take us around. There is only one man in our unit who had papers from the mental institution at Ponoka attesting that he was sane and they gave him his ticket.

The stone age lumber company is in full swing and the farmers and homesteaders have come into their own as they have been stringing backed wire lately.

The soldiers thought they would be given a chance to help harvest this year's bumper crop as in 1918. At that time the troops were given leave and their army pay went right on but the difference between this year and then is the fact that the government wanted the wheat then but saw faced with the prospect of a tremendous surplus this year and in line with the system of created scarcity, such as dumping coffee into the ocean and using cotton to build roads, etc. it may not worry the men who deal in wheat very much if a few million bushels do spoil.

The kicking still goes on in Vancouver against the Japs not being moved out. It has recently been brought to light that many Japs continue to do business under city licenses. It seems evident that some persons with influence are using it to keep the Japs from being evacuated. There are many people on the coast who are Jap sympathizers and always have been. These sixth columnists have money and have made much of it from employing Japanese or dealing with them. People in Vancouver know who they are and some of them are among the so-called big shots in B.C. industry. Over in Greenwood and Kamloops are white women employing Jap girls for eight dollars a month and find it enables them to put on the Jap for very little outlay, telling their friends what wonderful servants they have. I heard of one store keeper who lost his two clerks through enlistment and promptly hired Jap girls to take their place. What people go your life for! It's a good thing all Canadians are not the same.

The new budget received a great deal of praise from many leading papers and as I don't know anything about budget other than spending my money until my pockets are empty and then waking up to the fact that I am out of the red yet, I hope it is a good one but I don't know whether it helps people who put their money into Victory Bonds and Savings. There is a 35 percent tax on jewelry it is only worth $75 or 10 cents a pound on tobacco your bond will now only buy $64 worth. I hope bonds are worth a few dollars by the time a few more budgets come down and even if they are worth nothing I won't care so long as we win the war.

This letter is long enough now, but here is one too good to keep and it just came in. One of our company has a farm at Alliance and made application for harvest leave. Today he received a letter from the government inquiring if he would spend his family to do his harvesting. Isn't that something to ask a Vet of the last war and a soldier in this one. Russia or was criticized for her purges but at

"I tell my family that as long as Jack is overseas, we'll eat hash and like it."

"WE ARE at war. It costs lots to win. It would cost everything to lose. So I don't figure that because we'll soon pay a small amount as compulsory savings, I can fold my hands and say 'That's that!' No sir! Some people may need compulsory savings to save something for their own good. But that's the minimum. I'm out to save all I can to buy War Savings Stamps and Certificates to help win the war and have something substantial put by for the days when there won't be all this work and overtime."

LIFE IN BRITAIN

Economies Being Added To And More Hardships Are Ahead

In almost three years of war, life in Britain has become more and more Spartan, but new restrictions will make it even more rigorous.

A development likely to involve many hardships next winter is the call for saving 10,000,000 tons of coal. Domestic consumption will be cut by 6,000,000, while the remaining 4,000,000 will be saved through economies by larger coal users.

Old clothes are being revealed to such an extent that shops doing this work are unable to keep pace with the orders. In one large London shop repairing shoes there are 15,000 pairs of shoes waiting to be repaired and new orders cannot be filled for three or four weeks.

The firms that undertake "invisible mending" of stockings are requiring two weeks for deliveries, and the whole stocking situation is so acute that there will shortly be special shops where stockings can be resoled and reborn from salvaged material which has been sterilized.

In very big stores you can now get shirts recollared and recuffed from material taken off the tail. You can get a woman's suit made up from a man's tailcoat and trousers.

No more articles not considered strictly useful will be manufactured. That means no more ornamental glassware, coffee percolators, soup spoons, metal or rubber toys, jewelry, leather trunks, eyebrow tweezers, to name a few.

Less water for baths and fewer baths are urged. The pillowslip line of a bath is set at a five-inch level and the official injunction is "Have a bath every other day."

Empire Can Never Die

As Long As People Value Their Heritage Above Life Itself

The miracle of the British Empire cannot die, because it is the translation of the most advanced conceptions of civil and spiritual freedom men have known, into government institutions and standards of conduct which are above the understanding of all dictators and apostles of brute force. The great commonwealth stands firmly-based, because it is the best thing the world possesses, because the people whose privilege it is to enjoy citizenship within it (and to contribute to its growth, value their heritage above life itself.—Sydney Post-Record.

Tungsten Production

A Move To Increase Output From Canadian Mines

In a move aimed at increasing production of tungsten from Canadian mines, Metals Control, George C. Bateman has authorized an increase in the price of tungsten from $20 to $24 a short ton unit of 20 pounds, the department of munitions and supply announced.

A department statement said the price ceiling does not affect purchases by the department to increase government stockpiles.

Endurance Tests

Training An Army Of Spartans Proceeds In Britain

Britain is training an army of Spartans whose powers of resistance and fighting qualities will be second to none.

The stiffest endurance test ever carried out by Imperial Forces has just been completed.

Scores of thousands of British and Canadian troops were driven to the point of exhaustion in 10 days of almost ceaseless marching and "fighting."

They were not allowed to buy food or drink at any town or village they passed through. Hard-scale rations only were provided.

This unprecedented endurance test was planned by the keenest physical fitness chief of the army, General Bernard Montgomery, commander of this vital sector of England.

To harden his men he arranged a great battle between a whole Canadian Corps supplemented by an English division, and a whole English Corps, supplemented by an armored division.

Hundreds of tanks were engaged as well as tens of thousands of infantry soldiers. It was planned so that large bodies of men made long marches in 18 hours, at the end of 10 days marching. Another unit marched 56 miles in 50 hours and the men liked it.

A Cup Of Tea

Greater Care Must Now Be Taken In The Brewing

A cup of good strong tea used to be made with a heaping teaspoonful of tea for each cup and an extra teaspoonful "for the pot." Hereafter it is going to be a level teaspoonful of tea—or less—for each cup and nothing for the pot.

As for coffee, we're not so sure; we've never yet met two men who put the same quantity of coffee into the making of a good cup of it, and precious few people who could make good coffee, or the sort of coffee at any rate that we liked.

But no matter what this new edict of the War-time Price and Trade Board is going to mean to our future tea and coffee, there's no sense in complaining. We're not being deprived because some barometer happens to be a sadist, or thinks tea and coffee are bad for us, but because we can't get ships to bring us tea and coffee and haven't got enough supply on hand. All this rationing means is a move to make what supply we have go as far as possible.

If anybody thinks it's important, or at all tragic, then that person had better break up on the war.—Ottawa Journal.

Peat As A Fuel

Russia Has Used It Extensively For Developing Electricity

Russia knows the value of peat as a fuel even if we continue to ignore our own extensive deposits. As long ago as 1832, the Russians have mined 21,700,000 tons of peat, a fuel which they use extensively for the development of electricity, and now, with the enemy in possession of the Donets coal basin, they are being urged to increase their production. Meanwhile the peat bogs of Canada remain almost completely undeveloped.—Brookville Recorder and Times.

New Military Expression

Nazis Call Tactics They Are Using In Russia "Mot Pulk"

The Germans have a new military expression for what they are trying to accomplish in Russia. They call it Field Marshal General Fedor von Bock's "mot pulk."

It resembles in some degree the positional tactics of the first Great War, with tanks and mechanization added. It counts on slow, massive pressure rather than lightning thrusts. It gives careful attention to defence against flanking or rear attack.

"Mot pulk" is newly coined German slang for a motorized formation up to 300 miles in circumference, with tanks at the outside, and infantry, artillery and supplies in the centre. The Germans regard the "mot pulk" as nearly self-sufficient as a fighting unit—but vulnerable if attacked by heavier-equipped mechanized forces.

"Mot pulk" is a combined abbreviation of motorized and pulk, a technical expression long used by Nazi aviators to describe flying in solid formation. It is a Russian word, and resembles to the old Greek phalanx. Where the Greeks and Macedonians used shields over their heads for protection, the Germans count on aviation.

The cautious "mot pulk" is sufficient enough to the Russians it might yet develop effective counter-tactics, the Germans claim.

Scores of thoughtless, and withal designed with the coming winter campaign in mind. The "mot pulk" carries even machine shops within its tank walls, and with planes delivered supplies it could be used as a huge winter fortress, provided access and protection of its troops could be assured.

About Books

By Rev. Dudley F. Kemp In Calgary Herald

After 15 years of parish visiting in farm houses, ranch houses and city homes, there have been certain thoughts collected in my mind on the bookcases I have come across, and which I would like to share.

Most of the time, of course, it has been books, unless some strong-minded housewife, with no love of literature, has decided to make a china cabinet out of the military reference previously reserved for the feathered outgrowths of Kathleen Norris, and the strong-arm stories of Zane Grey.

The most noticeable feature of the contents of bookcases is their imperviousness to change, for though there are probably thousands of new books published every year, the great majority of bookcases indicate that publishers went out of business about 1920 or even before that. But there is something rather imperishable about a book.

Monthly Publications

Work Under A Handicap In Times Of Crisis

Monthly periodicals—among them the Navy—suffer in times of crisis, and especially when, as now, crises and bad events, both at home and abroad, follow each other like bombs in a "blitz," from demands made on the prophetic instincts of contributors.

Daily newspapers, with successive editions are hardly ever caught napping. With monthlies the written word must always risk being out-dated before the page is printed.

There was once, indeed, the unfortunate predicament of a publication which was issued with a magnificent description of the coronation of King George VI. It was, however, postponed at the last moment! That was a classic and minority accident.—The Navy (London).

Had To Come Home

Japs Would Not Allow Washington Columnist To Go To China

Leonard Lyons, in New York Post, says Joe Alsop, the Washington columnist who was captured in Hong Kong, is one of the American war heroes, after the Japanese-American exchange of interned civilians. Alsop, who is related to the President, had resigned his commission in the U.S. Navy to work for the Chinese government in Chungking. He, of course, expressed great delight at being liberated, but protested against being sent back to America. He wanted the Japs to let him free at the point nearest to his place of capture, the place to which he will return in a few days.—China.

Caught Off Guard

Counsel In Damage Suit Was Case By Clever Questioning

Francis L. Wetman, a former District Attorney of New York city, told this story: A laboring man was suing a Street Railway company for damages arising out of a collision between two surface cars. He had testified that he had been permanently injured and, as a result, could not raise his arm above a point parallel with his shoulder. If his contention were correct, it was a case for heavy damages.

Counsel for the Street Railway, however, was convinced that the man was exaggerating. The difficulty was to prove it. On cross-examination, and after a few sympathetic questions, the man was asked to be good enough to show the jury the extreme limit to which he could raise his arm since the accident. He slowly, and with considerable difficulty, raised his arm to the parallel of his shoulder.

"Now raise the same arm, and show the jury how high you could get it before the accident," quietly continued counsel. Whereupon the witness raised his arm to its full extent above his head, amid peals of laughter from the court and jury.

CHART A QUICK WAY TO LEARN THE PIANO

Not enough attention? One way to get attention is to deceive it. Playing the piano you always have a chart.

Not that the piano is hard to learn; it isn't. You can learn to play it interestingly with the aid of a keyboard chart that shows at a glance which keys to play for which music notes.

So that from the very start you know how to read music! And our diagrams are so simple that you can play popular pieces without long hours of practice. Just simply by playing the melody line with your right hand and with your left some easy harmonizing chords.

Yes, those numbers below our line represent the number of notes number corresponds to the number key on your Chart. Look at your chosen numbers, then at your chart—and play.

You soon learn all the basic chords you need this way and you know so many pieces that people think you've played for years!

Our 24-page instruction book has tables of chords and fulsize keyboard chart. Gives lessons in rhythm, elements of music, has three pieces for practice.

Fire Retarding

Chemical Has Been Perfected By Refugee Who Escaped From Germany

Perfection of a secret, fire-retarding chemical by a German refugee with a view to protecting wooden structures used in war production and by the armed forces has been reported by a Harvard university professor.

Dr. Waltraud Jahn, a chemist who fled Hitler's Germany, is developing the chemical under the direction of Dr. Grinnell Jones, who is associated with Harvard's laboratories.

The chemical can be sprayed on new wood or applied with a paint brush.

CANADIAN RAILWAYS

It speaks well for the careful manner in which Canadian railways are operated and for the attention paid to their roadbeds and equipment that the period of exceptionally heavy traffic through which they are passing is marked by so few serious accidents. This is the more remarkable when it is recognized that many of the men now engaged in railway work may be classified as "green hands."—Brookville Recorder and Times.

plan of reducing the price of beef first applied July 15, when the first reduction of one cent a pound took place. Subsequent reductions have been worked out in a sliding scale for the benefit of the consumer. Retailers, prohibited from paying more than the maximum wholesale price, likewise make their selling price to the consumer, at the averaged delivered cost of carcasses sides, quarters or cuts, plus their marginal mark up for the basic period September 15, to October 11. This applies to sales of beef of the same similar kind and quality.

ITEMS OF NEWS OF GLEICHEN AND VICINITY

Mrs. Goldsmith of Cluny spent several days in town visiting her sister Mrs. Walters.

Mrs. Agnes Boyd of Calgary is holidaying at the home of Miss Rosemary Jones.

Mrs. F. Jones of Calgary is spending a few days in town visiting Mrs. P. Deshayes.

Miss M. O'Neill of the Blackfoot hospital staff spent the weekend in Calgary visiting her parents.

Houses in Gleichen are getting scarcer day by day. It is reported that there are very few empty houses now.

Sgt. Bob Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Taylor, has a broad smile these days. A daughter arrived at his home in Calgary last Sunday.

ANGLEWORMS AS PEPPER-UPPERS

Anglemorms—fisher. Or anglemorms for the young robin family. That's the usual association most of us have in our minds about these lowly little soil animals. But here is something new to think about. They tell us that when you see a robin with his black head cocked to one side, apparently listening, he hears the anglemorm singing, and in that way discovers where to find him. And they also say that the earthworm is a real silviculturist.

The fact is, our scientists tell us that the earthworm is one of the best workers we have, in helping trees to grow. That sounds rather incredible, but the anglemorm really does a very important job. He fertilizes the ground so it will help to feed the trees.

Of course we all know that trees need other things besides water in order to grow and in turn produce the wood which is so important to us humans. Trees need minerals for food and if the ground contains the right amount of these minerals the trees will pump them into their myriad cells, stems and leaves, which eventually make the wood.

Now what part does the anglemorm play in this process? In the first place he makes the soil porous by boring holes into the ground. This permits the rain to soak into the ground and be stored to a depth of six feet or more. It will not run off, as would be the case if the ground were hard and not porous. These same tunnels help to ventilate the soil.

Anglemorms consume the leaves of some of the hardwood trees. They also draw the leaves into their holes and there the leaves decay or are digested and then deposited. Earthworm castings are said to be one of the richest plant foods known. The anglemorm has a chicken-like gizzard which pulverizes everything the worm swallows. Through chemical reaction this whole process is believed to aid in breaking up the mineral soil. When this happens the minerals are ready for the trees to use for food.

Experiments with plants in jars have been made and it was found that those plants which had earthworms or earthworm egg-capsules in their soil were stronger, healthier and twice the size of the plants without them. It was even noted that the more luxuriant plants grown on worm-worked soil were more or less ignored by pests.

worms in gardens and around fruit trees. Where these earthworms are, if so he will be glad to publish it. In case you do not happen to meet him on the street use the telephone or the mail. You will be helping make the local use of greater interest and thereby serve the general community. We never news may interest you, must surely interest others.

SIT BACK FOR A MINUTE...

THINK of the things you want for yourself, your children and the days to come. Most hopes are simple ones. Translate these ordinary, pleasant things to the grisly pictures of wreckage and starvation that come to us with the news every day.

Then get a new grip on yourself.

Quarters and half-dollars may seem "small potatoes" as a protection from these horrors—but...

Let Canada have them NOW, in a steady, self-denying stream.

BREWING INDUSTRY OF ALBERTA

All business houses need more or less printed matter, all of which is within the possibilities of the local printer. Yet how prone many are to pass up the home printer and let the orders go to city offices which have no interest whatever in rural communities except to get printing orders and the cash to pay for them. Business men, remember that the home paper is constantly promoting the interests of the home community and you owe it to your self and your local paper to back up these efforts by at least having your printed matter done locally.
